Consul General, Mr Watters, and copies of letters which passed between them. As regards the correspondence we do not doubt for a moment the genuineness of the letters of which copies are given, but to accept as absolutely correct the lengthy reports, verbatim et literatim, of conversations in regard to disputed matters was, of course, quite out of the question, even if the tendency of these reports had not been, as it undoubtedly is, to cast certain unfavourable, reflections on Her Majesty's Acting Consul General at Canton. In such a case the unfairness of presenting only one side is ubrious. As regards Mr Dyer's charge against the Lekin authorities—the seiz ure of eighteen cases of kerosene and six tins of matches, and the imprisonment and ill-treatment of his Chinese servant, who, he says, was in charge of the goods-assuming Mr. Dyer's statement of the circumstances under which the acts complained of occurred to be cor- the date of its last published accounts. rect, it must be admitted that he has good grounds for seeking redress. On the other hand the Chinese authorities allege that the goods were being smuggled and that Mr Dyer's servant was arrested for combining for that end with another Chiness who had purchased the goods. Mr Watters, after inquiry, withdrew from the case, giving as his reason that he was convinced from Queen to Madrid will be retarded if the the statements made by Mr Dyer's servant himself that the goods had at the time of the seizurs passed into the passession of the Chinese purchaser, referred to. The result of this was an intimation by Mr Dyer that he intended to refer the case to Peking. There the matter rests in the meantime.
